Why is Fraunhofer Italia part of AlpLinkBioEco?

- Fraunhofer Italia (FHI) is an applied research centre partner of the Fraunhofer Gesellschaft, the largest applied research organisation in Europe. FHI aims at fostering innovation on future oriented relevant topics on behalf of the industry for the benefit of the society. FHI will be mainly involved in the Activity T4.2 leading to the development of a strategic roadmap on how a macro regional approach can positively impact circular bio-based economy in the Alpine Space and will take over selected tasks in WPT1 and WPT3.

- Why did you join AlpLinkBioEco?

Fraunhofer Italia considers the development of digital tools and platforms valuable assets to increase the efficiency of value chains in the bio-economy sectors, enabling to manage complex production dynamics and wide range of different stakeholders. Fraunhofer will provide both technical and strategic inputs contributing to the development of the value-chain link generator and the strategic roadmap highlighting the benefit of a macro-regional approach to circular bio-based economy. FHI will benefit from the project consolidating its know-how on the development of business models and digital tools/platform for companies and institutions, undertaking innovation and digital transformation for the sustainability of their business and particularly in the bio-economy strategic sector.
